Interior California.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 14.—The steamer Orizaba arrived to-day bringing a large list of passengers. After leaving Anaheim this morning, Samuel Jaynes, freight clerk, was missing from the steamer. It was first discovered at breakfast. He was last seen about 3 A. M., when he went to bed. His clothing was all in his state room and it is supposed he walked overboard in his sleep or fell, by accident, though nothing definite is known. He was well known in the northern and central parts of the State as an officer of the old California Steam Navigation Co., long resident agent, at Red Bluff, but latterly engaged in the forwarding and commission business at Redding, in this State.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14.—A paper is to be started at Panamint immediately by the Panamint Publishing Co., represented by T. S. Harris, late of Sacramento. He will be assisted in the editorial department by D. P. Carr, late of the Carson Appeal, but now of Panamint.

SAN JOSE, November 14.—This morning the proprietor of Blackberry farm, George McCauley, was accidentally killed by the discharge of his gun. He climbed the fence near his house and was putting the gun through with the muzzle towards him, when it was discharged, the load entering his right side just below the heart, resulting in instant death.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 14.—The Thanksgiving proclamation by Governor Booth was filed in the office of the Secretary of State to-day, in accordance with established custom and in conformity to the proclamation of the President of the United States. The Governor appoints Thursday, Nov. 26th, Thanksgiving Day, and by authority of law declares it a legal holiday.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 15.—The wife of Police Judge W. R. Cantwell committed suicide by strychnine last night at her home, corner of Eighteenth and I streets. The cause of self-destruction is attributed to a quarrel with her step son.

Philip Scheld, proprietor of the Sacramento Brewery, an old resident of this city, while out hunting yesterday near Wood's station, on the Placerville road, accidentally shot himself between the elbow and shoulder of the left arm, shattering it in such a manner as to render amputation close to the shoulder necessary. The operation was successfully performed. He is now doing as well as could be expected.

At Washington, Yolo county, about half past ten last night, Patrick Fay was shot by Frank Vanguelder. The difficulty grew out of a dispute over a raffle for a cow. Fay was shot in the breast, and the wound is of such a nature it may possibly prove fatal.

Thos. Gerrand Convicted of Murder in the First Degree.

SALEM, Nov. 15.—The jury in the case of the State of Oregon vs. Thos. Gerrand, for the killing of Hubbard, brought in a verdict late last night, of guilty as charged in the indictment. This is his second trial, and there seems to be no hope but that he must suffer the severe penalty of the law. He will be sentenced to-morrow.

MR. PARTON AND THE PRESS.

In the pages of one of our leading magazines, some months ago, Mr. James Parton saw fit to attack reporters for the inaccuracies for which they were responsible in the columns of the daily press. The paper, which was written in Mr. Parton's best vein and with the apparent evidence of its author being fully possessed of the facts in the case, excited the ire of the brotherhood, and they at once set to work and exploded the more material of his charges with the vigor that will probably serve to teach him for the future the saving virtue of the maxim—"Be sure you are right—then go ahead." Not content with this refutation, a correspondent of one of our city papers "carried the war into Africa," by visiting Princeton, N. J., to make special investigation into some of the "historical facts" contained in that gentleman's "Life of Aaron Burr," and after a casual examination, found that, at least one of the incidents, as given by him, in the career of that wonderful man, was based on as pure a myth as it was possible to be coined by the veriest penny-a-liner. Mr. Parton states that he was led to believe, while gathering the material for his book in Princeton, that the incident in question was a "well-established piece of gossip," and it seems he did not take any special pains to inform himself whether it had a more substantial foundation. Apparently, he was of the opinion that gossip was good enough for history, and he at once placed it in his biography as such. One of the city dailies, in taking him to task for the offense, asks "where will he find greater accuracy than in newspapers? The error which one makes is very speedily corrected by the others, and in this age of inquiry and debate, if Truth ever emerges from the well in which she is said to abide, it is to clothed herself in print."

It further says that "the neglect to investigate is the great sin he imputes to journalists. Mr. Parton should learn by this to be charitable. He did not have to telegraph his life of Burr from New Orleans or Japan. He did not to have to write in a day. All the time desired was granted to him to discover the truth, yet he solemnly printed a ridiculous story, and says now that it was not important enough to require much investigation."

If this be taken as a fair sample of his work, it is not at all probable that its historical value will be enhanced in the judgment of the public, however much his unquestionably graceful style may be admired.—American Newspaper Reporter.

PETTING A LION.—The placidity of the lion "Kennedy" and the sharpness of his claws was tested by a young gentleman yesterday afternoon, during his, no doubt, first visit to Central Park. The old lion was quietly dozing away, with his paws hanging out of the cage, when the youth in question came along and began to pat his foot in a manner that rather annoyed the king of beasts. "Kennedy" bore it patiently, however, for awhile; but finally made up his mind that forbearance had ceased to be a virtue, and at the same time he made up his claws, and when they came down they caught the young gentleman on the back of the hand. His friends immediately instituted a search for the nearest drug store.—N. Y. Herald, Nov. 2.

The official estimate for funds of New York city for the year 1875, amount to $36,650,000 of which $33,650,000 is to be raised by taxation.

A LAWYER IN TROUBLE.

SCENE IN THE SAFE BURGLARY TRIAL AT WASHINGTON.

Michael Hays was then recalled and cross-examined by Mr. Davidge. It was a member of Congress who registered at a hotel here as Butler. It was not this gentleman, pointing to himself; the first time he called at Capitol Hill to see Mr. Demain did not see him.

Mr. Davidge—The printed evidence shows that you are in error about that.

Witness—There are many errors in printed evidence.

Mr. Davidge—Yes; a good deal of it is untrue.

Witness—And there are a great many truths in that book.

Mr. Davidge—Hays, you must behave yourself, or I will hand you over to the Court, or the Court will take charge of you.

The Court—The witness has a right to protect himself.

Mr. Davidge—Not by impudence, your Honor.

The Court—That depends upon how far impudence may be retorted.

Mr. Harington to Mr. Riddle—I would except to that.

Mr. Davidge arose and was about to address the Court, when the Court directed him to sit down. Mr. Davidge still endeavored to address the Court.

The Court—Sit down, Mr. Davidge, or I will give you cause to do so. Mr. Davidge sat down.

The Court—Now go on with the examination.

Beriah Brown writes, in substance, that although he supported the Administration party in the late canvass, he has not changed his former political principles. As this was written since learning of the State elections, we fear our old friend is falling from grace.

The Sisters' Annual Fair for the benefit of the Orphan Asylum was held at Vancouver, W. T., on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of last week. As usual, it was a brilliant affair, as well as a great source of income for the benefit of the orphans. The net proceeds amounted to $1,000.

The following officers were elected in Klickitat county, W. T.: County Commissioners, Geo. Miller, W. Whitney, A. H. Curtis; Probate Judge, M. V. Harper; Sheriff, A. Schuster; Auditor, H. T. Levins; Treasurer, T. Connell; Superintendent of Schools, P. E. Michell; Surveyor, M. V. Harper, Coroner, John Graham.

The Owyhee Avalanche, of Nov. 7th, says: "A few days ago A. Frank arrived from Walla Walla with 500 boxes of apples, 9,000 pounds of loose apples in bulk, 500 dozen of eggs, and 4,500 pounds of butter, and Mr. Frank informs us to-day that he has sold out the entire stock at remunerative prices and got the money for it."

The Walla Walla Statesman indulges in a little mild irony thusly: "The result of the election shows that the people of this county are satisfied with their local government, and that all complaints about 'high taxes,' 'salary swindles,' etc., are bosh. We believe in bowing to the popular will, and should the rate of taxation be still further increased, we shall not deem it our duty to grumble."

The B. B. Mail of the 7th inst. gives the following list of officers elected in Whatcom county: Probate Judge, J. H. Paster; Commissioners, S. D. Bess, H. Roeder and E. McAlpin; Sheriff, G. W. L. Allen; Auditor, M. D. Smith; Treasurer, E. Eldridge; School Superintendent, F. F. Lane; Surveyor, John A. Tennant; Coroner, N. W. Lakeman; Councilman, S. W. Huvey; Representative, R. E. Whitney.

The Avalanche, of Nov. 7th, says: "The latest received intelligence gives Bennett 225 majority in Owyhee county, 200 in Ada, 150 in Alturas, 75 in Lemhi—total majority for Bennett in those counties 650. Boise county gives Fenn 175 majority, Oneida, 150, and it is estimated that North Idaho, composed of Idaho, Shoshone and Nez Perce counties will give him 350 majority—total majority for Fenn, 675. This will leave Fenn 25 ahead. But we do not believe that North Idaho will turn out 350 majority for Fenn. If he should not get over 300 majority in that portion of the Territory, the chances are decidedly in favor of Bennett's election."

SAM'S RETORT.

To the Editor of the Boston Herald.

I see by a paper this morning that Butler at a meeting held in Newburyport last night, gave utterance to the following: That "Simmons' story dishonored nobody but his mother." So, Butler, you wait until you triumph in the convention before you say one word in reply to my pointed charges, and then state you will make no denial. Coward! why not, like the plucky soldier you have sought to be called, answer or deny what any man under ordinary circumstances would do? And you bring in my aged mother's name with your vile tongue, that was once the delight of the lower classes who thronged the court-rooms of Lowell, is still potent, and controls and gives tone and form to every thought conceived and and every expression uttered by you, the self-constituted model politician of our State! You institute a comparison between my brother and myself, hoping, undoubtedly, that I may strike at him, and he in turn renew the crushing process which he saw fit to suddenly stop. Both he and I are so far above you in all that makes a true man as is the gallant Cogswell above you in all that makes a soldier. Shame, oh shame, to bring into print the mother of the collector and myself. I tell you, sir, you have not the courage of a true man for if you had you would deny my statement and fight it out with me, and me alone: If any one chooses to examine my record as a soldier and a citizen let him do so. If you, false-hearted and false-tongued man, supported and upheld by the patronage of the government through the men who, with their mouths at the government teat, worked for you in the late contest in so open and bare-faced a manner as to disgust many of your personal friends,—if you desire to inquire into my record as a soldier and a citizen, and especially as a Butler man, do so, and I will render you all the assistance in my power; and further, let me tell you, while enjoying your triumph of yesterday, that the day will surely come when the work known as Butlerism must cease, and you will be most effectually bottled up and buried; and all the shovels used at Dutch Gap, with all the powder uselessly spent at Fort Fisher, and all the government officers at all the departments—all hard at work for Ben—will not prevent the great Butler catastrophe. And now, on mighty Butler! oh, impudent Butler! couch thy lance and once more enter the field, and you will find, though I am not a young Christian soldier occupying a high position under the government, I seldom cry enough. I am but a plain, outspoken man, ready at any and all times to resent an injury. And more, you, Butler, the great, the powerful Butler, know you that I have received telegrams and personal visits from parties throughout the State, from Democratic leaders who helped to pack your caucusses, to the effect that they are ready and willing to back me up by absolute proof. Why don't your powerful leaders deny my direct charges? You, Butler, state in your abortive effort of yesterday that I said that I spent money for carriage hire. I now state most of the money received by me from your leaders in your campaign was spent in the liquor stores in the places where I was sent! and it is a fact that, when you spoke in Lawrence last year, your carriage hire and other expenses were paid by a liquor dealer of Lawrence, and I myself introduced to you a citizen of Lawrence, who was a Democrat then and is to-day, who carried into the Butler caucus eighty-three brother Democrats. I still continue to defy you with all your power

SAMUEL J. SIMMONS.

SHAKER'S HYMN.—After the "dance" ended, we sat wondering how a method of worship so apparently incongruous in a people of such sobriety and almost gloom, could have been made the custom. The gentlemen of our party must have had other thoughts, for he afterward handed us the following translation of the hymn we had failed to understand. We will not vouch for anything but the metre. That we heard:

Worldlings! don't you see us dance?
La, la, la! La, la, la!
Worldlings! see our downward glance!
La, la, la! La, la, la!
The sperrit moves us inwardly;
Inward-lye, inward-lye.
It cometh to us from the sky:
From the sky, skey-igh, skey-igh.

WONDERFUL HEART ATTRACTION OF AN ENGLISH GIRL AND HER SAD END.

LONDON, October 8.—A very strange story was told to me the other day. In a town not far from London there lived a young lady who was handsome, tolerably wealthy, and more than usually well educated. Her father was an invalid; her mother was an insipid, cold and heartless woman. Two years ago a physician of London was called to attend the father; in this way the young lady saw him. He paid no attention to her—his mind was engrossed with his professional duties. A few weeks ago this doctor, after paying a visit to his patient, was somewhat surprised by being asked by the young lady to give her the favor of a private interview. She took him into a drawing-room and led him to the further end of the apartment. "Doctor," said she, "I suppose that gentlemen of your profession are accustomed to receive strange confidences. I have a confession to make to you." He supposed that the impending confession had something to do with the state of her own health or with that of her father, and he begged her to proceed. "You will, however, be scarcely prepared for what I am about to say," she continued, "but I wish you to hear it. It is now just two years since I first saw you. You have scarce ever exchanged a word with me, but I have learned much about you. I am not mistaken in believing that you are unmarried?"

"No," said he, "I am not married!"

"And your affections are not engaged?"

"You scarcely have the right to ask that," said he.

"Well, then," she replied, "I will not ask it, but I must make to you my confession. I love you with all my heart. I wish you to marry me. I said to myself I will wait for two years—if he then speaks to me I will know what to say. You have not spoken; and now I speak. I say I love you with all my heart; you are necessary for me; will you marry me?"

The doctor, who, although not a very old man, was twice the age of the young lady, recovering a little from his surprise, tried to turn the matter off as a joke; but the young lady was very serious.

"No," said she, "I am in very sober earnest. I know all you may say or think as to the indelicacy of my proposal, but I cannot help it. I ask you once more, can you love me, and will you marry me?"

"In sober earnest, then," he replied, "I can not marry you."

"Then I shall die," said she, very calmly, and she left the room.

The doctor had heard people say before this they should die, and he left the house without attaching much importance to the prophecy, although wondering greatly at the other portion of the interview.

A few days after this the young lady was found dead in her bed. Two letters laid upon the dressing-table. One was addressed to her family solicitor. It recalled to his mind a promise he had made her. She had gone to see him, and had asked him to make out for her a paper transferring the whole of her property to a person whose name she would not then give him. He was to prepare the necessary paper and send it to her to fill up the blanks and to sign. She had done this, and she now inclosed the paper filled and signed. Every penny of her property was given to the doctor, and the solicitor was instructed to make the transfer to him, to ask no questions, and to take no receipt. The other letter was to the doctor. "I told you I should die," she said, "and when you receive this I shall be dead. For ten days I have taken no food or drink, but that does not kill me; and now I have taken poison. I have no reproach to make to you, but I could not live without your love. When I am dead, look at my heart. You will see your name there. I have two requests to make of you. Go to my solicitor and take what he has for you, and then go off for a few months. The other request is that you never ask where I am buried, and never come to my grave."

There was a post-mortem examination made of the young lady's body. On her breast, over her heart, deeply imprinted in the flesh, were the initials of the Doctor's name. The characters seemed to have been made there two or three years before. They were probably imprinted by her own hand on the day when she first saw him.—Cor. N. Y. Graphic.

TILTON'S TRAFFIC.

IN THE SCRAPS AND SIRLOINS OF SCANDAL—HIS PROFITS $20,000—BRISK TRADE IN LOVE LETTERS.

[Correspondence of the Pittsburg Leader.]

There has been some sympathy expended upon the case of Theodore Tilton, on the ground that he was impoverished in his overthrow from Bowen's employ, and that now, while well on in life, he would have to begin over again to make his fortune. Financially speaking, however, Tilton is now in better condition than he ever was in his life. It seems that he has done a most enterprising business in the way of selling his statements and other evidences he has furnished the public. Not a line has he furnished but for which he has been most handsomely paid. In the beginning of the fight the Herald made some overtures to Tilton for the publication of his statements, but Tilton coquetted so with all the morning papers for money that they all entered into a combination against him, agreeing that none of them would buy any of his papers. The result was the matter was left with the evening press. The Graphic bid highest for the privilege of publishing what Mr. Tilton had to say about the case, and it paid roundly for the privilege. The way Tilton made so much money out of the literature that he and Moulton have composed in this scandal, was to make arrangements with papers throughout the country, to whom he sent advance copies, so that they might publish it the same time the stuff appeared in the city of New York. The Boston Herald paid $300 for an advance copy of Tilton's statement, which was, like all the rest of his publications in this matter, hawked about the country. It is estimated by good judges that Tilton has made at least $20,000 since the publication of the scandal in the sale of documents. The way the Chicago Tribune got such an inside track in the matter was through a most liberal expenditure of money. Mr. Townsend, who came on for that purpose, was furnished with ample means for the purchase of documents. Tilton got a very handsome sum for his wife's old love l[illegible] Throughout the whole business Tilton has been skillfully turning an honest penny, as he might term it. Trading upon one's d[illegible] is not very creditable to a man, and, however Tilton may have been wronged, his deliberate marketing of his wrongs is not a trait that will raise him in the opinion of any one.

THE OLDEST PRINTER.—John P. McArdle, the oldest practical printer in the country, died last week at Republic, Seneca county, O. He was born in Ireland, March, 1785, and was consequently in his 90th year when he died. He came to this country in 1801, when he became an apprentice, and, up to within a few months, has continued the business. How many typographical errors he had perpetrated in seventy years, how many thousand ems he had set up in that time, how many scintillations of genius and fancy he had immortalized in type, how many unkind speeches he had placed before the world, and how many editorial blunders had been unjustly thrown upon "our stupid printer," it would be interesting to know. In seventy years they must have been numerous. He started no less than three newspapers, the last, the Norwalk Reporter, being the first newspaper published in Huron county, Ohio. Mr. McArdle was as familiar with the book-binding business as with type-setting, and was in many ways a distinguished character.—Chicago Tribune, Nov. 2.

"Olivia" writes to the Philadelphia Press about "the great throbbing heart of the Republic, whose right hand grasps the beard of the stormy Atlantic, while the left is held out for the Pacific to kiss." Since the English language got into the maelstrom of the Brooklyn scandal most everybody feels as if he had a right to gush without a license.

CURIOUS TRAITS OF THE NEGRO.—My host told several stories illustrating the peculiarities of negro character—his secretiveness, gullibility, political slavishness, and superstition in religion. While he was planting in another parish, a well known negro was reported missing from the plantation. It was said by his fellows that he had run away, but General Thomas had reason to believe otherwise, and confided his suspicions to a colored Justice of the Peace, who at once had a sort of investigation of the case, but without making any discovery. So the matter dropped from the memory of the whites. But more than a year afterwards a negro got drunk, and in a quarrel said to an associate, "If you don't take care I'll cut your head off like I did ——'s." This remark being reported to the whites they caused the arrest of the man who made it, and this led to a confession, from which it appeared that poor —— had really been murdered. He was attending a prayer-meeting when a row took place, and a negro who was a kind of a plantation butcher took an immense meat-ax and severed his head at a blow. The strange part of it is that though the murder was witnessed by half a score of negroes and soon became known to nearly every man on the plantation, the secret was faithfully kept for more than a year—not only from the white man, but from those negroes who were officers of justice.—Louisiana Cor. N. Y. Tribune.

INGRATITUDE.—The town of Ayer, named after the would-be Congressman in consideration of his giving it a town hall, etc., gives a swinging majority against him. So does Lowell, where he has made his pills and spent his money. Such is the ingratitude of the human race.

V. V. Smith, who solicits President Grant to make him Governor of Arkansas, is Volney V. Smith, formerly of Linn county, a son of the late Delazon Smith.

Congressman Nesmith has taken his departure overland for the National Capital.

MONDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 16, 1874.

SMITH.

There is no good reason in the nature of things, why a man of the name of Smith may not be the Governor of a State. We have never been of those who agree to the proposition advanced by the late Mr. Shakspeare, that there is nothing in a name, for we have known and read of too many instances of persons reaching high positions upon no capital stock but a name; but the name Smith has nothing in it that ought to prevent the possessor of it, or the person possessed by it, from being a Governor—especially a Governor of the sovereign reconstructed State of Arkansas.

Having gone thus far, it will be naturally inferred that we sympathize with Smith, and with the "State officers" of Arkansas, who are just now trying to induce the President to make Smith Governor of that State. And why should we not? Smith is a good man. We have no definite information about him, but he is presumed to be a good man till the contrary is shown, and therefore we pronounce Smith a good man. The grounds of his appeal for Federal assistance in his single dash at gubernatorial honors, also, furnish a reason why we should sympathize with him. His State is clearly without a Governor unless he is helped into the chair. It happens in this way: Two years ago there was an election in the State, and in that election, Smith was chosen Lieutenant-Governor, Elisha Baxter being chosen Governor. Governor Baxter discharged the duties of his office, including the suppression of the famous Brooks rebellion, till, in pursuance of an act of the Legislature a Constitutional Convention met and formed a new Constitution and the people ratified it by an overwhelming vote. That Constitution provided that the term of Smith should end, and that his successor should be elected on the 3d of November. At the time appointed, the people held an election, and chose for the successor of Smith, a man named Garland, well known in Arkansas politics, and "who did not know Joseph;" that is, who was not a carpet-bagger nor a friend of carpet-bag rule. The election was no sooner over than Gov. Baxter resigned his office, turning over the property and insignia appertaining thereto, to Garland who thereupon assumed the authority and begun to exercise the functions of Governor.

On this statement it would seem that Arkansas is not without a Governor, but Smith says there was a technical imperfection in the mode of proceeding to adopt the new Constitution, which renders the same and all acts under it null and void, and that ergo the abdication of Baxter leaves the Governor's office tenantless, unless he as Lieutenant-Governor, "go in and occupy." It is true the people, upon a vote which no one charges to have been in any respect unfair, have declared against Mr. Smith by 75,000 majority. But what has the will of the people to do with the case. The technical compliance with the forms of the law is always held to be far more important in elections than the fair expression of the popular will. Who does not know that the failure to dot an i or cross a t is always held a sufficient defect to render invalid the most solemn instruments affecting valuable property rights; and what, compared to such rights, are the right of self-government and the peace and good order of the State of Arkansas? Trifles; mere bagatelle that ought not to engage the attention for a single moment. A true statesman will brush them away as chaff.

A class of people all over the country—a numerous class, we are sorry to say, and who have somehow obtained a standing for intelligence far above their deserts—will be sure to say that [illegible] Government should abstain from any interference in this matter, and should allow the almost unanimously expressed wish of the people of Arkansas to be carried out; that any slight defect of form should not vitiate the election; that the state of society in the South and of public sentiment in the North demands that there should be exercised toward the Southern people every forbearance that is consistent with the protection of the substantial rights of every citizen; and, finally, that the controversy, if it must come into the General Government, should come through the courts, rather than as a direct interference of the national Executive in the affairs of a State where there is no pretense of insurrection or forcible resistance to the laws. But persons who urge such notions are either idiots or "soreheaded disorganizers," and the President will act like a dunce if he hearkens to them. This sort of nonsense has already had too much influence with the Administration. Nearly every one of the sovereign reconstructed States have already slipped from the grasp of the President and the Republican party, through such shilly-shallying, and it is time it were stopped. We unite our voice with the voice of those officers of the sovereign reconstructed State of Arkansas who have been kicked out by an ungrateful people, in demanding that the requisite Federal assistance be given to make Smith Governor.

DWELLING TOGETHER IN UNITY.

The Salem Mercury and the Portland News, both Democratic organs, are illustrating the harmony and good feeling that prevail among the brethren of the Democratic household of faith just now. Not those radical differences of sentiment on the questions of tariff, and of currency, of civil rights, which so divide the clans of the faithful in the East, but the question of how to run a newspaper, is the cause of the "unpleasantness" between brother Bristow of the Mercury, and brethren Curry and Kelly of the News. We take no sides in this controversy, as we don't pretend to know how a Democratic newspaper should be managed; but we are sure all the brethren concerned in the dispute will take it kindly if we give our readers an impartial statement of the grounds of the quarrel. The facts, then, are about as follows: The Mercury last week criticised the News for having its inside—the Mercury said its "in'ards"—printed in Chicago, and took occasion to remark that this having "patent in'ards" by an Oregon paper deprives Oregon printers of employment which in the nature of things they are entitled to. To this the News replies, admitting the peculiar condition of its "in'ards" as alleged, but averring that those patent "in'ards" are vastly superior to the home-manufactured "in'ards" of the Mercury. But it does not stop here. It carries the war into Africa, and declares brother Bristow is an "interloper" in journalism, and runs a "rat" office; that his paper is a swindle upon its readers; intimates that the Mercury would be a paper if its editorial chair were filled by "somebody possessing a teaspoonful of brains;" and finally makes a significant remark about the price of tar and feathers. We are sure these brethren are too severe on each other. They should recollect that beautiful couplet about little children tearing out each other's glass eyes.

WAR LOSSES.

The Washington Chronicle is of opinion that the Opposition, in the South, has its inspiration in "an intense desire to be remunerated for war losses and a determination to get control of Congress and the Federal Government in order to have those losses paid." No doubt many Southern politicians would do anything within their power to secure the payment of these claims by the General Government; but we can hardly believe that is the main inspiration of the Opposition party. Nor can we suppose it possible for the wish of those who desire such payment ever to be realized. Such a proposition put squarely before the people would be condemned by as sweeping a defeat as that which has just overtaken the third term, and the party that brings it forward may as well make up their minds to stand aside. The people of the United States, generous as they have shown themselves to be in dealing with the South, will not consent to make good the losses the Southern people sustained by their rebellion.

Speaking of the foolish and suicidal course pursued by the white people of the Southern States after the war, in ostracising and proscribing northern people who sought homes in the south, the Washington Chronicle thus pictures the result of this foolish course, and incidentally describes the carpet-baggers who have lately been ruling in that section. It says truly:

Emigrants from the North were not tolerated. The doors of the South were closed against them, and it soon became apparent that no Northern gentleman could settle and live in the South, except by the sacrifice of all that he held dear. The result of this course of conduct upon the part of the Southern people was, that the better class of Northern emigrants was driven away, and the only Northern man that remained was the mere adventurer, who went there to better his condition at whatever sacrifice, whether of principle or honor. Excluded from white society, he sought that of the negro, and became the leader of the latter that he might fill the offices and profit thereby.

We do not vouch for the truth of this which appears in the form of a special telegram from the town of Ripley, Ohio, to the Cincinnati Gazette under date of October 30:

Yesterday evening, between 10 and 11 o'clock, there appeared suspended between the heaven and the earth almost a fac simile of one of Raphael's angels. Though not of the full stature of a well-developed human being, yet it was most perfectly formed, and as white as alabaster. The wings were outspread, with arms extended imploringly, and its evolutions were as rapid and beautiful as a bird, as it circled in mid-air. Over 150 of our best citizens, ladies and gentlemen, were eye-witnesses of this singular spectacle, and gazed with admiration and awe. The testimony of all who were fortunate enough to behold it is that there was indisputable evidence that it was not a female although the form was as delicately moulded and the limbs as perfectly rounded as the most perfect Eve that ever came from under the chisel of an artist. Probably it can be explained by some of the scientists.

On the 1st of January next, the compulsory education law will go into effect in New York. It provides, under penalties, that all parents and others who have the care and custody of children shall cause them to be instructed in spelling, reading, writing, English grammar, geography and arithmetic; and to this end it is required that every child between the ages of eight and fourteen years shall be sent to school at least fourteen weeks in the year, eight weeks, at least, to be consecutive.

The South Bend (Ind.) Tribune says Schuyler Colfax "was persistently urged, not only by Republicans, but by very many others not in political sympathy with him, to accept an election to Congress, and if he had yielded to these appeals, which he inflexibly declined to do, he would have received the vote not only of his political friends, but of many hundreds of Republicans who voted the opposition ticket, and also of hundreds who had never voted for him before."

The Bulletin complains that we have used some of its editorials without giving proper credit. We deny the charge in toto. The only editorials of the Bulletin that have appeared in the OREGONIAN have been credited to the papers from which the Bulletin filched them. If we did use the editorials that appear in the Bulletin, without credit, we could not be charged with theft; our crime would be receiving stolen property.

The Louisiana sugar crop of this year is reported considerably larger than last year. The bulk of all the sugar used in the United States comes from Cuba. Our importations from that island cost us annually about $75,000,000. A large part of the United States is admirably adapted to the cultivation of sugar cane, and we could be exporters instead of importers of cane. It is an industry that can not fail to be remunerative.

The leading editorial article in the "inadvertently fresh" paper of Saturday, was an elaborate argument to show that hereafter there will be no more independent action in politics. We should like extremely well to be informed how the man from whom the editor of the Bulletin pilfered that article happens to know so much more about the subject than other people.

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach and Breath, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood, are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action; and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most skillful physicians, most eminent clergymen, and our best citizens, send certificates of cures performed and of great benefit they have derived from these Pills. Ayer's Ague Cure,

FOR THE SPEEDY RELIEF OF

Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

Has been widely used during the last twenty-five years, in the treatment of these distressing diseases, and with such unvarying success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. The shakes, or chills, once broken by it, do not return, until the disease is contracted again. This has made it an accepted remedy, and trusted specific, for the Fever and Ague of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South.

Ayers' Ague Cure eradicates the noxious poison from the system, and leaves the patient as well as before the attack. It thoroughly expels the disease, so that no Liver Complaints, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dysentery or Debility follow the cure. Indeed, where Disorders of the Liver and Bowels have occurred from Miasmatic Poison, it removes the cause of them and they disappear. Not only is it an effectual cure, but if taken occasionally by patients exposed to malaria it will expel the poison and protect them from attack. Travelers and temporary residents in Fever and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease. The General Debility which is so apt to ensue from continued exposure to Malaria and Miasm, has no speedier remedy.

For Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy.

W. WADHAMS, W. S. LADD,
D. W. WAKEFIELD, J. L. ATKINSON,
L. WHITE, W. H. EFFINGER,
M. P. MORSE.

THIS ASSOCIATION WAS INCORPORATED AT Portland, Oregon, October 29th, 1874, with a Capital Stock of $100,000, on a United States gold coin basis and under the laws of the State of Oregon, for the purpose of issuing Life, Endowment and Annuity Policies on such terms and at such rates as will be within the means of every citizen, and retain at home the large sums annually sent East for Life Insurance, which can be as safely, and to the public more advantageously, invested in building up our home interests.

Mutual Life Insurance, in its truth, is simply the agreement of any number of persons that upon the death of any one of them those left living shall each contribute a certain agreed sum, which in its total or aggregate shall be given to the family—wife, or child, relative, or estate—as stipulated by the deceased. But such persons so agreeing (if any considerable number) require the services of a responsible agency for the collection and disbursement of such moneys, and it is for such purpose that this Association has been organized and duly incorporated under the laws of the State.

The safe and honorable management of the affairs of the Association is guaranteed by its incorporators, whose names are a warranty to the public for safe custody of their trust funds.

Life Policies.

In issuing these, the design of the Association is as agents of the people, to provide them with the advantages of a Mutual Life or Mutual Contribution system of Life Insurance at actual cost, without unnecessary, and in some cases unbearably, heavy expense to which the public have heretofore been compelled to submit.

The originators of the beneficent plan of Mutual Life Insurance never designed that the participants should pay four times its actual cost, nor indeed any cost until the anticipated deaths had actually occurred. Common sense tells us that paying a debt when it is due is sufficient, in all business transactions.

Endowments.

Payable in five, ten, fifteen and twenty years, will be issued by the Association in its corporate capacity, giving its pledge for their true payment, as stated over the signatures of their President and Secretary. That better interest on money, and better results to the holders of such endowments can be obtained here than in the Eastern States or in Europe, is evident when we consider the difference between the well known three to five, and six to seven per cent. realized in the East, against the ten and twelve per cent interest that can be safely obtained on the Pacific Coast.

Annuities.

The Association issue Life Annuities for the payment each year of agreed or specified sums, in gold coin, to the holders of such Policies; these will be issued over the signatures of the President and Secretary. The same reasons which enable the Association to issue endowments or agreements to pay a specified sum at the end of a stated term of years, and to give such endowments on better terms than can be done by any Eastern Life Insurance Company, also apply in case of Annuities, or a stated sum annually to be given by the Association.

CITY.

A STUBBORN CASE.—Under date of November [illegible]th, our regular correspondent at Oregon [illegible] sends us the following: But little occurs during the "damp dim[illegible]" [illegible] the quiet denizens of this [illegible] one ripple worthy of notice has [illegible] the usually calm surface of [illegible] has excited not a little in[illegible] in this community. I [illegible] which has been in prog[illegible] of the Peace, during the entire [illegible] has just been concluded, so far as the Justice Court is concerned. The case has excited considerable interest because of the [illegible] involved, and the vigor with which [illegible] counsel prosecuted, and the stubborn [illegible] with which defendant's counsel resisted. The case is entitled "Harding & Potter vs Schram," and the question involved is whether money loaned to another to bet at a gaming table can be recovered by an action at law. The plaintiffs were represented by Upton and Barin, and the defendants by F. O. [illegible]own and W. W. Moreland. The case was tried on Monday and Tuesday before a jury which disagreed, standing three for plaintiff and three for defendants. It was retried on Wednesday and Thursday before another jury, which also disagreed, standing one for plaintiff and five for defendant. In the last trial before the jury, the argument of counsel lasted nearly one entire day. The patience of the jury must have been severely tried to listen throughout to such long speeches. On Friday the case was tried the third time before the Justice, who decided in favor of the defendant. It seems that this will not be the last of the case, as the plaintiffs say they intend to appeal it to the Circuit Court. So we may anticipate more fun [illegible]

GONE DOWN FOR REPAIRS.—Owing to the very rough usage experienced by the steamer [illegible] from Nor[illegible] California on her late [illegible] the mouth of the Columbia, it has [illegible] prudent by the company to [illegible] her to San Francisco. Arriving [illegible] the [illegible] will be placed in the dry dock, and [illegible] go a complete overhauling. The [illegible] [illegible]ity of the gale, and roughness of the sea, [illegible] the steamer to the test, and [illegible] [illegible]erable. So severe was the storm [illegible] vessel leaked badly, and passengers who were aboard informed us that at one time the water was nearly waist deep in the hold [illegible] while the vessel was rolling and tossing [illegible] men were compelled to lend a hand in bailing out the water. All the pumps were running, and a line of men formed reaching from the lowest point of the hold up to the d[illegible] buckets were employed and a string of th[illegible] constantly ascending and descending as [illegible] were passed from hand to hand. For [illegible] hours, we are informed, the contest [illegible], by which means the vessel was kept free from water. Had the water been allowed to gain in the hold, it would soon have extinguished the fire in the furnace, and left the vessel to drift about at the mercy of the raging elements. Soon as the storm abated its fury, the vessel ceased to strain, and the pumps prevailed and gained on the water, and the danger was passed. Yesterday the California was at the coal wharf taking on wood. She will probably sail for San Francisco to-day or to-morrow. In a few days the Gussie Telfair, which has been on the ways down at San Francisco for a number of weeks, is to sail for this port, and arriving here, will take the place of the California for the present.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES.—Some time since a suit for damages was instituted in the District Court of Washington Territory by Sheriff Smith, of Cowlitz county, against Mrs. Money and Wm. Pickett. Twenty thousand dollars was the amount of damages claimed by the plaintiff. The suit was commenced in consequence of some very severe strictures on the official acts of Sheriff Smith, which were published in the [illegible] Beacon last spring. The [illegible], at the time the articles appeared, was owned by Mrs. [illegible], and edited by Mr. Pickett. Last week the case came on for trial at Kalama. After a long examination and lengthy argument by the opposing counsel, the case was submitted to the jury. The jury after a brief deliberation returned with a verdict. This verdict awarded to Sheriff Smith the sum of one dollar and fifty cents, as damages for an injured reputation. Before the trial was concluded, one of the defendants—Mrs. Money—was dismissed from the case on motion of the counsel. Mr. Pickett, the remaining defendant, is the party against whom the damages are assessed, and as a matter of course, that gentleman is expected to liquidate the enormous (?) sum of money above mentioned. Owing to the small amount of damages awarded by the jury, the plaintiff will be in for the cost of the Court.

REPORT FROM OREGON.—At a meeting of the Board of Missions of the Episcopal Church, recently held at St. Ann Church, New York, Bishop B. W. Morris, of Portland, Oregon, made a report of which the following are the main points: More men are called for; also a division of the jurisdiction, because of the [illegible] of reaching the eastern part. The [illegible] jurisdiction would embrace Idaho [illegible] the eastern part of Oregon and Washington, and contain a population of 40,000, three [illegible] men, and six or eight church[illegible]. Five corner-stones of churches have been laid, and ground broken for three others. There have been 133 confirmations. The following is the result of the five years since B[illegible] M[illegible] took charge. In that time there have [illegible] adults baptized, and 791 infants—making a total of 1,002; 431 persons have [illegible] confirmed, and the present number of com[illegible] is [illegible], last 300; the whole [illegible] of contributions reported is $115,681, the [illegible] of church property acquired during this [illegible] fully $135,000 in U. S. [illegible]; the buildings erected are 1 hospital, [illegible] parochial schools, 3 parson[illegible] and [illegible] churches and chapels, completed or [illegible] way—27 in all.

A BASE SLANDER.—Eastern papers frequently display not only the most unpardo[illegible] ignorance of the geographical boundaries of this State, but it often transpires that they get things badly muddled. Here is what an exchange says: "An Albany man, an O[illegible], out of work and nearly starving, turned for comfort in his extremity, to his sainted mother's Bible, for the first time since her death in [illegible]. To his surprise and delight he found a $10 bill between the leaves, and immediately fell on his knees for the first time since 1846. With a light heart and glittering eye, he prayerfully started for the baker's to obtain a loaf of bread. There he found that the bill was a counterfeit, when he swore bitterly, for the first time in three hours." We suggest that there must be a mistake somewhere. There is not a man in Albany, or who resides within an area of ten miles of that town, that will plead guilty to the above charge. Like every Albanian, we pronounce it a base calumny.

ON THE WAY.—The [illegible] Ajax sailed last Saturday fo[illegible] from San Francisco for Portland. The following is the list of [illegible]: W. A. Jennings and wife, Thos. Heath, Dr. E. H. Jeffries, Mrs. C. F. [illegible] and [illegible], D. C. Bogart and family, E. Watson, J. West, W. J. Hardy, C. A. Burkhardt, Mrs. S. Francis, S. Eggers, W. Cherry, C. A. Alsky, L. H. Wakefield, Mrs. S. Wakefield and daughter, Dr. J. P. Tate and family, Miss [illegible] A. Crafts, Mrs. W. Jackson, I. Fleischner, [illegible] Keller, S. Lowenberg and wife, M. White, [illegible], H. Hoyt, J. F. Hamilton, W. Gra[illegible], J. Slater, F. DeWitt, J. McAvy and family, M. Mountain and child, J. Owen, E. Tucker, Mrs. M. A. Ramp, Miss C. [illegible]head, W. J. Caldwell, J. S. McNean, G. Chappel, Miss E. Bell, Miss H. Turpin, J. S. Mays and family, J. Owen, Wm. Earl, C. D. Page.

CHARITABLE ENTERTAINMENT.—On next Friday evening, 20th of November, there will be an entertainment given under the auspices of the Ladies' Relief Society for the benefit of the "Home," in the rooms of the Progress Club, which have been kindly tendered for this cause of charity. The entertainment will be varied to suit all tastes, consisting of dancing, games, reading, and refreshment rooms. We sincerely trust that the affair will prove a success socially and financially.

THE RIVER.—Pilots who know all about the depth of water between this city and the mouth of the Columbia inform us that vessels now go down the river every week drawing sixteen feet or more. The misrepresentations of the Astorian, whose editor seems to delight in telling what is not true about this matter, ought to consult those who know something about it, and not make himself so ridiculous.

RAILROAD COLLISION —A few days since a freight train on the Oregon and California Railroad was considerably damaged near the Clackamas bridge The train was coming up the grade north of the bridge, when the train broke in twain That portion of the train separated by the breakage ran down the grade some distance, until brought up by the brakes While backing down to the cars the engineer lost control of his train owing to not having more brakes and down the locomotive and fifteen freight cars went violently against the others A number of cars were considerably damaged and are now at the car shops being repaired In consequence of the accident the train was delayed several hours

CHURCH IMPROVED —The Oregon Churchman says The Episcopal Church at Oregon City has lately been very much improved and beautified A tower has been erected in front of the Church eight feet square and forty eight feet high terminating in a cross at the top It is quite neat and pretty and gives to the building a church like appearance This it has needed for a long time past as it has often been mistaken for a dwelling house or a school house The bell that stood on a frame at the back of the Church has been placed in the tower, and sounds better than it did before It is however a miserable bell and should be superseded by a new one as soon as possible

SCHOOL REGISTER —Prof S W King City Superintendent of Public Schools and the several Principals connected with the same have recently devised and prepared a new form of school register for the use of all the teachers attached to the public schools This register is for the purpose of keeping in an easy and perfect manner the attendance scholarship good conduct etc of the pupil It is very cleverly arranged and answers admirably the purposes for which it is intended This register is one of the best now in use among all the schools of the land

PORTLAND AND SALT LAKE —Says the Salt Lake Tribune Portland Oregon is a city of 12,000 inhabitants and pays $30 000 a year to support its public schools It costs each head of a family in that city a fraction over $10 a year to educate his children In Salt Lake a city double the size of Portland, it costs parents from $5 to $15 per quarter for every child sent to school This is the difference between a priest ridden city in a Theocratic Government and a free city in a Republican Government

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Messrs Corbitt & Macleay offer to the trade of Oregon the entire cargo of Sandwich Island sugar just received by the bark Mattie Macleay For particulars read their advertisement in another column

Among the notices in these columns we find something new from Jos Kohn the pioneer clothier He has a most attractive stock which should be inspected by those in want of winter suits and furnishing goods

The entire stock of McGee, O Toole & Co is offered for sale at amazingly low prices On account of illness of Mr O Toole he is unable to continue the business and is desirous of closing out as early as possible Note the scale of prices published in the new advertisement which appears on second page Carpenters and painters particularly should avail themselves of this opportunity to lay in a stock

Aside from calling attention to the advertisement of the North Pacific Mutual Life Association which appears in another column, we would earnestly recommend business men and others who contemplate insuring their lives to give this association its terms, manner of doing business etc, their earnest consideration, and we believe that it will commend itself to their judgment As a home institution it certainly has claims to a liberal patronage

PAUSE WHILE YOU READ THIS! The season for parties and balls has arrived and the cold dreary days and nights of winter will soon visit us Every young man old man and boy for that matter likes to present a neat appearance when attending parties the theater or walking about the streets They likewise desire to be well provided against the cold blasts of snow and rain What contributes more to the personal appearance and comfort of a gentleman or boy than a nicely fitting suit of clothes set off with a heavy warm overcoat? Why will any one be so foolish as to go without either when BECK & WALDMAN have everything in that line Beck & Waldman in laying in their immense fall and winter stock of clothing have exercised great care and selected with reference to the demand of trade They have purchased their goods low and are determined not to be undersold Let the public note this fact

Dr Steele's Medical Wonder has stood the test of time as the cure for rheumatic and other pains as well as colds cough cramps &c Taken with Wonder Pills for liver complaints kidney disorders and impure blood For sale everywhere

AMUSEMENTS

ORO FINO THEATER —Both at matinee and on Saturday evening a large audience was present at this place of amusement to witness the repetition of " Rip Van Winkle If possible the play was rendered better than on the opening night The good opinion formed of Mr Sawtelle as a finished artist on his first appearance, was strengthened and increased by witnessing the two personations of Rip which followed No one, we venture, can witness Mr Sawtelle s rendering of this great character without being impressed with his superior qualities as an artist in the truest and highest sense of the word The plot of the play is very weak its situations common place and unimportant and the lines outside of the great central character devoid generally of wit or sentiment All the interest which attaches to the play is centered in the character of Rip Van Winkle and all the other characters which appear are merely subordinate and only contribute to bring into prominence the leading figure If Rip plays his part indifferently then the whole effort is a total failure and would serve to remind one of the great tragedy of Hamlet with the character of the moody Prince left out First and last all the interest which the play awakens must depend upon the character of Rip Van Winkle and if he would succeed he must invest the part with whatever enthusiasm the situations scenes and language would inspire Just how well Mr Sawtelle succeeded in this difficult role we leave the large and critical audience to judge Throughout the attention was almost breathless, and at times the enthusiasm was overwhelming, when Rip gave utterance to one quiet vein of humor which crops out every now and then or made a decided hit when he least suspected it In the more sentimental situations his words and actions did not fail to awaken the tender feelings of the audience There were many tearful eyes at the closing of the first act, when he was driven from home and in the scene where the old wanderer, after a lapse of twenty years was recognized by the Meenie of maturer years, and reconciled to the frow of nine bosom As the frow of Amazonian tendencies Mrs Phelps was all that could be desired as Gretchen, in which part the lady sustained herself with much credit One of the most interesting features of the play was the appearance of Little Vivia who personated in the first part of the play, Meenie This little actress sustained the part allotted her admirably Mr Sawtelle and Mrs Phelps were efficiently supported by Miss Morgan, Miss Brady Messrs Crowell Gunning Barrows Kelly and others of the company who gave entire satisfaction in their respective roles This evening Boucicault s great play of the Octoroon' will be produced with a powerful cast Mr Sawtelle will personate Salem Scudder Mrs Phelps Zoe Mr J H Leroy, (who makes his first bow before a Portland audience,) Uncle Pete Jas Barrows ' Jacob McClosky, Little Vivia Paul Mr Kelly the Indian Mr Gunning as Geo Peyton etc To morrow and Wednesday evenings the great sensational play of The Red Pocket Book ' Uncle Tom s Cabin is underlined for Thursday evening Other attractive plays will be produced in rapid succession

SKATING RINK —Saturday evening this place of amusement was thrown open to the public under the management of Mr H C Morrice In addition to being opened under a new manager the Rink building has been thoroughly overhauled and renovated The floor which from long and constant use had become chopped up and uneven was removed and new lumber substituted Mr Morrice has spared no expense to fit the building up in the most comfortable manner possible On the opening night there was a grand rush There were a large number of skaters on the floor darting here and there in the exhilarating sport and several hundred spectators who seemed to enjoy with keen relish the animated scene This place of amusement will be open every day from 10 to 12 A M, and from 2 to 4 P M except Sundays Wednesday has been set apart exclusively for ladies There will be skating every Tuesday Thursday and Saturday evening from 8 to 10 o clock P M Admission free, use of skates 25 cents

SOIREE DANSANTE —Owing to the extreme inclemency of the weather and the counter attractions there was a rather meager attendance at the soiree given last Saturday evening at the Dancing Academy The soirees are to be given every Saturday evening under the auspices of Profs. Halpruner and Schwendell. Very excellent music is to be in attendance at these parties and the strictest decorum will be observed We are assured that no objectionable characters will be allowed admittance

MUSEUM HALL —Large audiences were present at the above hall on Saturday afternoon and in the evening At matinee a large number of presents were distributed among the children which in addition to an attractive performance, had the effect to send the little folks away in a capital humor An interesting performance was given in the evening

FASHIONABLE OUTFITS —Attention is again called to the extraordinary opportunities which are just now being afforded by the extensive clothing house of JOS KOHN opposite National Bank There is no place in the State where a larger or finer assortment both for gentlemen boys and children will be found. At all times the prices have been the lowest known to the market but at the present time it will be found that they have been greatly reduced Mr Kohn keeps constantly on hand a large and superior stock of furnishing goods and underwear

Now is the accepted time As heretofore the prices will continue moderate for clothing, furnishing goods etc. at the old stand of Beck & Waldman clothiers Young America can be provided with nobby suits at this establishment Call to night

Dr Haskell s Troupe appear at Albany Monday, Nov 16 Corvallis, Tuesday Nov 17 Harrisburg Wednesday, Nov 18 Eugene, Thursday Nov 19 Roseburg Friday, Nov 20

The great Frenchman Altaroche made special ties of irony and sarcasm in all his writings but JOHN O NIEL & CO make specialties of selling the finest clothing underwear, cravats ties and hats at unparalleled low prices For a winter suit theirs are of the best so get yourself dressed and be at rest. This is not irony or sarcasm but stubborn fact, as everybody will find out who goes to their store Naked truth is good but people can't go about in that way and must have clothing, and the supplies received by this firm are just what are wanted for the season

THE NATIONAL GAME

The baseball players are already preparing for next season on a scale that promises to eclipse anything yet done in the national game From the New York Herald's review of base ball matters we take the following with relation to the preparations making for next year

Already most of the clubs who intend having professional nines next season have engaged a number of players The Bostons have retained Spaulding McVey, Barnes Schaffer the two Wrights and Leonard White it is understood will not play ball again preferring to attend to his business The Hartfords have engaged Higham Remsen Carey and Burdock, of the Mutuals Ferguson and Bond of the Atlantics and York of the Philadelphias Mills will probably remain with them also The Chicago people claim for next season Zettlein, Peters Force Glenn and Hines of their present nine Snyder of the Baltimores Hastings and Stearns of the Hartfords and Kear of the Maple Leaf Club of Guelph Canada They also expected Burdock of the Mutuals to play with them but he has signed papers with the Hartfords Very little is as yet known about the Athletics further than that besides a number of their present players Eggler and Hall have agreed to play with them Eggler is to receive $2 200 a year payable weekly in advance, and if any player is worth that much money Davy Eggler is the man The Philadelphia club will retain Cummings, of their present team and will see to it that he is supported by a strong field As for the Mutuals it is difficult to say just now who they will or who they will not have Start and Mathews are certain to remain with them and Hicks will probably catch Hatfield talks of abandoning the game altogether for the more congenial occupation of selling French pools The Atlantics will in all probability be without a good nine next season Ferguson and Bond as above stated will play elsewhere Dehlman will go to St Louis where he will probably be followed by Pearce, thus leaving the Atlantics badly in the lurch The Western, of Keokuk, Iowa will have a professional nine as will also the Red Stockings of St Louis

A Triumph of Chemistry

Among the numerous health giving discoveries of pharmaceutical chemistry none has achieved a more transcendent and lasting success than Hostetter's Stomach Bitters Of course there is a reason for this It would have been impossible to palm off for nearly a quarter of a century upon so shrewd a people as the Americans a merciless article or have established by mere advertising such a reputation as the Bitters enjoy If they did not possess a substantial title to public confidence The truth of this statement is proved by the fact that bogus nostrums no matter how extensively puffed usually enjoy but a transient existence are then discovered to be worthless and discarded Hostetter's Bitters on the contrary after a career of twenty years were never so popular as they are to day Soon after their appearance it became manifest that they possessed in a remarkable degree the power of toning and regulating the human system and to day they rank as the standard restorative of the age

SCOURGED

Dies Irae But the work goes on
As one by one the swindling tricks
Dark ways in which mean ends were won
The Butler style of politics
Brought to the open light of sun
Such stains of infamy they fix
Grand names are draggled in the dust
Once highest in our love and trust

So be it. Let the highest fall
Whose honor finds not ready aid
Thrust traitors from the guarded wall
When treachery is once displayed
Let men who palter losing all
Descending on the scoundrel's grade
Die once for all—and unforgiven
Far from the office seeker's heaven

Toiling till the land is swept,
With besom and is clean again;
Till money changing kings have crept
Out sorely scourged their noisome den
Where nameless infamies have slept
Purged to the utmost, fit for men—
Freedom's fair Temple, by that sign
Redeemed and made once more Divine

Sages have written Poets sung
The blessings of a coming time
Seen in prophetic eye while young
The earth rose in its morning prime
Vox Populi—Vox Dei Flung
To Kings defiance words sublime—
But not while infamy bears sway,
Our Leaders—Knaves And we their prey

But something's gained—and we may draw
Conclusions of an ending strife
See visions which our fathers saw
When War shall hide his dripping knife
Joy become duty Love be Law,
And Brotherhood the life of life—
Vox Populi—Vox Dei Then
Be true The voice of God like man

LIFE INSURANCE A DUTY

The large number of life insurance companies implies that there are existing conditions which strongly call the attention of the community to this subject. It is in such unsettled times that the peculiar benefits of life assurance are made most manifest. Men are anxious for the future. Thousands have families dependent upon them, whose property depends upon the condition of the father's life. Should he die, the income would cease; the children must be withdrawn from school, the mother and elder children must resort to every expedient merely to sustain the family; and in many cases with the utmost exertion, this cannot be done; the wife will return to the father for support, and the children, separated [illegible], and the younger to be distributed among friends.

Such histories are of common occurrence. They befall men least expecting them, and the least likely to meet them. While business is active and prosperity gives exhilaration and hope, men can hardly be made to feel that they are within a hand's breadth of utter reverse, and that their families may be scattered in a month by the death of the head as a brood of chickens is scattered when a hawk with a full swoop pounces down upon the mother. But hard times lead men to think on these things.

Now if a man has insured a sum of five or ten thousand dollars upon his life, this anxiety and foreboding is removed. While he lives he can support his family. If he dies, there is ample provision made for them.

There are, doubtless, thousands who had the means of having their lives insured a few years ago, but who are now too poor to do it. These are many yet able, who neglect it because they do not expect to be poor, who nevertheless will be not [illegible]. We are so deeply impressed with the importance of such prudential considerations that we regard the matter not only as one of prudence, but as a moral duty.

If life assurance was a mystery of finance, a speculation, a lottery of venture, a substitute for industry and frugality or in any way a presumptuous distrust of Divine Providence, a good man might well shrink from it. But if it be founded upon sound principles, if it rest not in uncertainties, but with sober and carefully ascertained facts, regulated by natural laws, and is as conformable to scientific truths as is any ordinary business of the mechanic, the merchant, the farmer, then there can be no just scruples at life assurance, and it becomes a matter of prudence, and thus of duty.

It is every man's duty to provide for his family. That provision includes its future contingent condition. That provision, in so far as it is material, men ordinarily seek to secure by their own accumulations and investments. But all these are uncertain. The man that is rich to-day by causes beyond his reach is poor to-morrow. A war in China, a [illegible] in Europe, a rebellion in America, overturn ten thousand fortunes in every commercial community.

But in life assurance there are no risks or contingencies. Other investments may fail. A house may burn down. Banks may break, and their stock be worthless. Bonds and mortgages may be seized for debt, and all property or evidences of property may fall into the bottomless gulf of bankruptcy. But money secured to your family by life assurance will go to them without fail or interruption, provided you have due discretion in the selection of a sound and honorable assurance company. Of two courses, one of which may leave your family destitute, and the other of which assures them a comfortable support at your death, can there be a doubt which is to be chosen? Can there be a doubt about duty? —H W Beecher

THE DUKE OF CAMBRIDGE

The Duke was a great diner-out, and nothing gave him more pleasure than being called upon to take the chair at any of the annual festivals in aid of some popular charity; but although the toast which he had to propose was written down for him on a slip of paper he very frequently contrived to forget what it really was, or managed to mix it up with some other subject in a manner which was highly amusing to the audience. Thus, if he happened to preside at a dinner given at Willis's Rooms in aid of the funds of the Newsvenders' Benevolent Association, flushed with the juice of the grape, the Duke, [illegible] "[illegible] it is now my agreeable duty to propose to you the toast of the evening. Women! to promote the objects of a most useful society, one which has done a vast amount of good in this metropolis upon highly [illegible] and helpful many worthy fellow-creatures at a period of great anxiety and peril. Ladies and gentlemen, we are all indebted to this most benevolent society. I beg, therefore, to propose health, prosperity, and [illegible] to the Lying in Hospital."

At this juncture some friendly bystander would pluck the orator by the sleeve, and remind him that it was not the Lying in [illegible] he was there to advocate, but the Newsvenders' Benevolent [illegible]. Then the Duke, taking up his parable, would go blundering on, mixing the two up together in a manner highly comical. "Ahem! Yes, and gentlemen, I find I have rather [illegible] my duty on this occasion in advocating the claims of the Lying in Hospital. It is certainly an admirable institution —no better; without it we should probably not have so many news venders, and without these useful members of society how should we get our morning papers? I drink prosperity, therefore, to the Blind Asylum—I beg pardon, I [illegible] the Newsvenders' Benevolent Association; and may they long discharge the duties they owe to society, by taking care of those unfortunates who find themselves in an interesting condition. [Immense applause and laughter.]—Belgravia

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.—A Hartford dispatch of October 31st says: There is agitation in the social circles here in consequence of the disappearance of Frederic W. Green, son of Quartermaster General Wm H Green, of Ingersoll's staff, and the parents of the young man are in deep sorrow over the absence of their only son, who has now been gone over a week. The young man who is in his eighteenth year, has been during the past year employed in the office of the National Screw Company. One week ago Friday before leaving home, after dinner, he told his father and mother that he was going to Buckland on the 6.20 train to remain over Sunday with some young friends, with whom he had before visited, and should be home Monday morning. His father called on him afterward at the company's works to give him some advice against taking a gun with him as he had spoken about hunting, and he saw him no more. Young Green left the office at 5.45 o'clock, and from that time to the present not the slightest trace of him has been discovered.

In the case of Ferrill vs Mallnot, for damages because the defendant didn't return the same wheat which was deposited with him as warehouseman, a Marion county jury returned a verdict for defendant.

Latest Liverpool advices denote a quiet market. Pacific coast wheat ranged from 9s 10d@10s 4d for average and 10s 4d@10s 10d for club per cental. The London market is quoted at 44s 6d per quarter for average quality just shipped and 45s per quarter for average nearly due at Queenstown.

In local monetary circles there is nothing transpiring worthy of special notice to day.

Trade of all kinds is of average activity and prices are unchanged since our last report. Receipts of wheat by boat for the week have been nearly 1 000 tons and a much larger quantity is expected by this means of transportation the coming week.

SENATOR JONES IN TROUBLE.

[illegible] WANTS TO MARRY A HANDSOME GIRL, AND HIS [illegible] WORRIES HIM WITH SCANDALOUS ANONYMOUS LETTERS.

Senator Jones, of Nevada, is engaged to be married to a San Francisco belle, Miss Georgia Sullivan. For some time he had been annoyed by the receipt of anonymous letters reflecting on her good name. After having destroyed a number of them he decided to inform his prospective father-in-law, and for the purpose of seeking vindication of his fiancee's [illegible], but with a view of obtaining his aid, [illegible] in hunting out and punishing the [illegible] slanderer. Contemporaneously with the receipt of these letters there appeared in a [illegible] local publication [illegible] upon reputable families, and, [illegible] paragraphs [illegible] upon [illegible] Sullivan. There was reason to believe that the author of this was the sender of the [illegible] of the editor as to the identity of the writer. He convinced Mr. Sullivan's friends that the [illegible] of the objectionable paragraph [illegible] through the [illegible] source, it was determined by the parties interested to employ detectives [illegible] letter boxes and endeavor to [illegible] the party or parties who should deposit any further communications of like character. The result of this plan is told in the San Francisco [illegible]:

"Two men, who had been hired for the [illegible] the letter box at the [illegible] of Hyde and O'Farrell streets. About [illegible] o'clock the unsuspecting young man, who was no other than Leo Johnstone Ransom [illegible] walked up, [illegible] away. For [illegible] the box, and take out all the letters [illegible] work of but a second. A [illegible] Ransom's shoulder felt the weight of a hand, and his ears heard those sad words, 'I want you, sir.' [No answer.] 'I have a warrant for your arrest for robbing the United States mails.' [Protestations of innocence [illegible] at indignation on the part of the youth.] 'What did you put in that box?' 'I put a letter in.' 'No, sir, that won't do. Here are all the letters in that box, now [illegible] you show us the one that you [illegible].' 'There it is, that's it, sir.' [Returning [illegible] and great exultation as he pointed to [illegible] addressed to the San Francisco News-[illegible]] All right, sir, that is all—you can [illegible]. The letter was thereupon taken to the [illegible]. Immediately thereafter Mr. Sullivan obtained an order from the editor of the [illegible] on the postmaster for the letter [illegible] when opened, was found to be a contribution of Lies of the Day,' including some [illegible] offensive assaults on Senator Jones and the Sullivan family and scurrilous attempts at sarcasm against the leading society people of San Francisco."

It is understood that Miss Sullivan had [illegible] rejected the addresses of Ransom, who took this [illegible] means of revenge. He, however, strenuously denies having written the offensive matter, alleging that the letter was given him to post by a lady whose name he refuses to divulge.

A RICH CHURCH.—Col Forney's letter in the [illegible] says: The salaries of twenty-eight prelates of the Established Church of England amount to £152,000 a year, or nearly $800 000, and to this you must add £38,000 for as many deans. The annual patronage attached to these twenty eight dioceses is valued at £901,[illegible]. This patronage includes canons resident, archdeacons, and other clerical sinecures. The value of the real estate of the Established Church of England may be estimated from the revenues, which at its lowest rate is £7,000,000, or $35,000,000 annually. The Established Church of Scotland (Presbyterian) owns 1,260 churches, educates 140 000 scholars, and raises £150 000 annually for home and mission purposes. Within twenty years 150 parish churches, [illegible] and erected [illegible] $500,000, have been endowed [illegible]
